The trustees officers employees and volunteers of a charity or similar organisation all have individual personal duties and responsibilities which bring with them many potential personal liabilities and potential risks. Although many people give their time free, this does not remove personal exposure to liabilities, this is why obtaining the right insurance cover is paramount. Even the most local charity groups may now face worldwide risks.

Insurance requirements for charities and non profit organisations can include Public Liability and Employers' Liability, Property Insurance - Buildings and Contents of the charity offices, Equipment away from own premises, Loss of Revenue, Trustee Indemnity, Professional Indemnity, Fidelity, Media risks, Personal Accident and Travel and many other risks. Each charity is different and presents its own risks, our advice is tailored to each of our clients.

We aim to be a natural extension of your organisation, so that we can provide advice and arrange insurance protection to help you in your valued efforts and work.

Please contact us to discuss how we can help you and your organisation.
